Convict Miners in Tennessee Endure Cruelties Worse Than Siberia.

Thousands of Fur Bearing Seals Reported off the California Coast.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—Dean Peck's prayer in the house to-day caused an uproar that shook the building. He said: "We shall pray especially for the majority of the house. We hope that they will be better than the last legislature, or else they may not have a majority of one. We are told to pray for our enemies and we do so, so far as they need our prayers, and we hope all party lines will be covered up. And we pray for the Populists and Democrats, and we hope that they will be resigned to their fate. We thank God for allowing us to live in this glorious country, and we hope now that all the offices are filled there will be harmony. God bless us all."

Panthers in New York State.

DOLGEVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The tracks of a panther were discovered a few days ago in the woods about 12 miles north of this village, and a party of hunters started out to capture the beast and they came near losing one of their number before the beast was killed. There were six in the party, armed with rifles or shot-guns, except one, who carried an axe. The panther's tracks had been followed about two miles through the woods and the man with the axe was about ten feet ahead of the others, when he suddenly stopped, dropped his axe and ran back. Not ten feet ahead of him was the panther, crouched on its haunches, its tail waving and just in the act of making a spring at the first man. Harvey Doxtoler was a few feet behind when the panther sprung and it was just about descending on the nearest of the party when he sent a bullet through the skull of the animal and it fell dead at the heels of the axeman. The panther measured six feet.

It was a $175 shot besides saving a life. This was the first panther seen in this vicinity for a great many years. The night after the panther was killed the scream of another was heard, the sound appeared to come from the mountains that run up from the bank of the lakes. Hunters are now out trying to capture it.

The Day of Small Things.

ANDERSON, Ind., Jan. 7.—The Western Association of Writers is holding a convention here to-day. The attendance is large. The programme comprises the reading and discussion of papers and productions in so called prose and alleged poetry.

Linen Girls' Union.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The working girls who are identified with the different branches of the linen industry throughout the country will form themselves into a national organization at a convention that will be called to order in Florence Hall at ten o'clock to-morrow morning by Miss Delia Maloney. The movement was begun by Miss Mary E. Kenny, the women's organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and the delegates, many of whom have already arrived, will represent the linen industries of Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Troy, St. Louis, Brooklyn and this city, to a total of over twenty thousand workers. A number of women Knights of Labor will take part in the proceedings, and the girls will discuss the best methods of enforcing the factory and anti-sweating bills, as well as the prison and immigration bills.

Exists in Free America.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 7.—Edward Hudson, who says he spent two and a half years as a convict miner in the coal mines at and near Briceville, Tenn., told his story to the chief of police to-day of the horrible treatment accorded the convicts. He says that the men are divided into gangs and given a certain amount of coal. They are beaten with an instrument which very much resembles the Russian knout. All are whipped, no matter if all but one or two did their share of work. He claims to have seen convicts die from this treatment. The victims are placed on the ground, face downward, and held by two men. Every cut of the knout draws blood. Two men he knew committed suicide to avoid punishment, and other have been known to pull great pieces of slate down upon them hoping to so maim themselves that they could not work in the mines. Hudson's story is similar to that of a very eminent professor of national repute who recently investigated the Tennessee system and described it as "worse than Siberia, a veritable hell on earth."

Gladstone May Come.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A London dispatch says that, despite his advanced age, it is not unlikely that Mr. Gladstone may be induced to visit this country during the World's Fair. A number of members and ex-members of Parliament have combined in a sort of World's Fair excursion party, and it is in contemplation to hire a fast steamer and enjoy the exclusive use of it on both the outward and homeward trips. Some of the promoters of the scheme are of the opinion that Mr. Gladstone could be induced to become a member of the party, providing his health is as good next summer as it is at the present time, and providing also that he would not be called upon to participate in any banquets or other fatiguing social festivities. It is contemplated to make the trip a short one, and only Washington outside of New York and Chicago will be visited. Amongst those said to be interested in the scheme are Henry Broadhurst, W. R. Burt, Kier Hardie, and W. R. Cremer, the workingmen's champions; Sir John Gorst, Joseph Chamberlain, Arnold Morley, John Mundella and Sir Lyon Playfair.

Maltreated to Death.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A miner who tried to return to work near Neunkirchen yesterday afternoon was so maltreated by miners that he died two hours later. Hundreds of miners are anxious to resume work, but fear to do so, as they are threatened with death by the leaders of the strike in case they do so. Boxes of powder and petroleum, with lighted fuses attached, have been found in the houses of several blacklegs. Many powder or dynamite bombs have exploded to-day in the halls or under the steps of houses where the blacklegs lodge. Nobody has been killed, but a considerable amount of damage has been done, and the gravest apprehensions have been excited throughout the Saar district in this city.

A Hearty Old Deutscher.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Citizens of all nationalities, especially Germans and German Americans, are by the hundreds to-day extending their congratulations to Hon. A. G. Hesing, founder of the Staats Zeitung, and the pioneer German journalist of the west, upon the fact that he has reached his seventieth birthday. To-night an informal reception is to be given to him by his son, Hon. Washington Hesing. No cards have been issued, the veteran preferring that his friends and acquaintances should sweep down upon him en masse after the old German custom.

Too Many Exhibited.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Director-General Davis and his chiefs of departments appear to have made a pretty mess of allotting space in the World's Fair building. Of the entire 3,000,000 feet of space at their disposal the director-general says ninety per cent. has been allotted. If this statement is correct 10,000 persons intending to exhibit are complaining because they have not been allotted space and must retire. The director-general insists that three times as many persons desire to exhibit as can be accommodated.

Children's Day at the Vatican.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Rome says that this was children's day at the Vatican. Over nine hundred little ones between the ages of five and ten years were received by the Pontiff in the Throne Room. Each little one was dressed in pure white, and each received the individual blessing of His Holiness, together with a little keepsake. The Pope also received a New Year's offering from the little ones, and was considerably affected.

The Prairie Province Leads the World With Her Incomparable Wheat.

Lorne on Sir John's Proposed Statute—Boodlers Detected at Spokane.

Fatal Natural Gas Explosion—The New American Consul at Three Rivers.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Canada's wheat product is receiving a good deal of attention in the British markets at present. Comparisons made of the western American product as against Manitoba's wheat are in favor of the latter. To this end Messrs. Dunlop Bros., of Glasgow, report state that while Duluth and other spring wheats are rather disappointing Manitoba again comes to the front this season. This report continuing says: Manitoba has exported freely to the British market and though the quantity has been large the quality was not inferior for the Manitoba wheat is handsomer, heavier and every way much more attractive than the Minnesota wheat. Thus Manitoba's No. 2 hard wheat has become popular in the English and Scottish market. Manitoba wheat, Nos. 1 and 2 hard, find a ready sale. The prices are as follows, quoting from yesterday's London transactions: Man. No. 1 hard sold at 30 shillings, C. I. A., No. 2 winter, at twenty-eight shillings.

Irish Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Speaker discusses in its latest issue five points of the proposed Irish Home Rule bill. It says that with regard to the land question the bill will reserve to Parliament for a certain term the sole right of legislation. Regarding the question of the retention of Irish members at Westminster, it is not unlikely that the Government will meet the question by adopting Mr. Parnell's suggestion not to touch it until the question has been settled of the veto that might be placed in the Lord Lieutenant. Appointed judges will be retained by the Government for the fixed term of five years, which term will also be fixed for the complete transformation of the public into a civil body. It is hoped that England will deal liberally with the Irish, and thus contribute to the Irish revenue, as Ireland will have no power to impose protective duties. The Speaker's article is believed to have been inspired by a member of the Government or some one near Mr. Gladstone.

Natural Gas Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—Three persons were killed and two badly injured in a natural gas explosion at the south side at 5 o'clock this morning. The dead are Thos. Duffy, a mill worker, aged 32, Mrs. Duffy, his wife and a 3-year-old daughter. The injured are Duffy's 9-year-old son, badly burned, and Wm. Harris, badly burned. The house was destroyed. It was a two-story brick, at 1010 Sarah street, occupied by Duffy and Harris. The Duffy family were asleep when the explosion occurred. The Harris family woke at 6 o'clock and Harris went to the cellar for coal, struck a match and the explosion followed. The force of the explosion was so great that the house fell and everything in it was demolished. The dead were removed to the morgue and the injured to the hospital.

May Cause a War.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., Jan. 7.—George Salter, aged 32, a citizen of Great Britain, is about to sue the City of Niagara Falls for $15,000 damages, and Niagara county for $10,000. He has also placed the matter in the hands of Sir Julian Pauncefote, British Minister to Washington. Salter was arrested at the instance of his landlady, who charged him before a police justice with defrauding her, and was sent to jail in that city for 30 days. He was put in the chain gang and compelled to break stone. On Dec. 22nd he was discharged. He says he advanced his landlady $48 and had only boarded out $20 when she had him arrested.

Levanted with the Cash.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Mr. Franklin McLeay, of Wilson Barrett's company, is the victim of misplaced confidence, and now mourns the loss of $75, while a young man, into whose charge he gave it, is now being looked for by the police. The young man was engaged here as a dresser, and said he came from Montreal. On Thursday evening, before going on the stage, Mr. McLeay gave him $75 to take care of, and that was the last seen of him. The young man had been in McLeay's employ a fortnight.

Revenged Themselves.

QUEBEC, Jan. 7.—The carters standing near the St. Louis hotel played a mean trick on the police on Thursday night in revenge for the latter driving them from the hotel doors. They started a report that a man had murdered his wife and family at the far end of the Cape. Enquiries began to come in at the central police station, and as soon as the men got in front of their beats they were ordered out to investigate the rumor and when they got back to the station with their reports it was time to go out on the beat again.

Fooling With a Gun.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Patrick Fenton, a dwarf, who was tried at the assizes yesterday on the charge of shooting Minnie Davis on Christmas morning while carelessly handling a rifle, was found guilty of manslaughter.

Merely Fooled With Them.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—The Dominion Express Company's messenger met two tramps on the Toronto express on Thursday night, when near Myrtle, a small village 40 miles east of Toronto. For a joke the messenger pointed his revolver at the two wanderers. A report was started in Montreal that the messenger was held up by tramps, who tried to rob him of $10,000. Mr. Stewart, superintendent of the company, says such a rumor is untrue.

Chile and Argentine.

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 7.—Two battalions armed with Mauser rifles have been sent to the frontier of the Argentine province of Corrientes. The meeting of the Intendente with the belligerents has amounted to nothing as yet, and it is not generally expected that a settlement will be reached. It is feared that the Federal troops will have to fight before the matter is settled. Minister Auchornia, of the Argentine cabinet, sympathises with the Corrientes revolutionists, and it is said will resign his portfolio.

Papers in Buenos Ayres are unanimous in a demand for the recall of Senor Guerrero, the Chilian minister, whose presence, they say, tends to disturb the friendly relations which exist between the two countries.

A bill providing for the payment of $25,000 in gold to the California lawyers who acted for the Junta de Cobierno in the Itata case, has passed the Chilian congress.

Harveyized Armor Plates.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 7.—The navy department is having made in the government department of the iron works here, a fourteen-inch Harveyized armor plate, which will be tested next week at Indian Head, when specially prepared chilled Holtzer projectiles, with maximum firing charges, will be discharged at it at short range. If the plate stands the test as satisfactorily as the last ten-inch Harveyized plate, this form of armor will be used entirely in the construction of American war vessels to built out of the $100,000,000 appropriation for naval defense.

Trampled by a Horse.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—Mr. George F. Phelps, the well known fish and game dealer, was somewhat seriously injured by a runaway team this morning. The accident was caused by the bursting of a girth on a horse owned and driven by Mr. Joseph Clearihue. The runaway animal ran against Mr. Phelps and trampled him severely. The injured man was carried into a house, where he lay unconscious for twenty minutes.

Sir John's Statue.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—At a meeting of the Macdonald memorial committee yesterday, the design of the proposed statue was presented. Additional subscriptions amounting to over $5000 were reported, mostly from Toronto. A letter from Lord Lorne was read congratulating the committee on having secured a competent Canadian artist to execute the statue.

Sugar on the Jump.

HALIFAX, Jan. 7.—Sugar has gone up in price 12½ to 16 cents per hundred pounds. The former increase is on granulated the latter on yellow. Shortness in the prospective supply is the cause. This means an eighth of a cent advance. It is estimated that there will be 140,000 tons less raised in beet root, and there will also be a diminution in the supply of cane.

Different Valuations.

TACOMA, Jan. 7.—The famous McBride school section, which has been before the public since 1883, has just been decided on appeal by John C. McBride, by the general land office. The decision takes 120 acres of school land in this city's principal avenue, valued at $350,000, for mineral purposes. McBride says it is worth $5,000,000.

The Crew Saved.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The pilot boat Edward Cooper No. 20, of New York, is reported missing. She was lost on December 23rd about 410 miles from Sandy Hook. The Dutch steamer La Campana, this morning, from Amsterdam, brought the crew of the missing pilot boat, ten in number. The entire crew were landed at Stapleton.

More Royal Grants.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The rumor regarding the marriage of another of the Prince of Wales' daughters to a subject, Lord Rosebery, is strongly gaining ground, and it is thought that the public announcement will be made at the same time as Prince George of Wales' engagement to Princess Mary of Teck.

A Careless Tramway Company.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—The trackmen threaten to take action against the city on account of the state of the streets, which the street railways have rendered practically impassable by clearing their rails and leaving the snow on each side piled up a foot above the track.

An Old Montrealer.

MONTREAL, can. 7.—The death is announced at Eltham, England, of Mrs. Greenshields, for many years a prominent and much-respected citizen of Montreal, and well known to Montrealers of the last generation.

Advertising on the Sky.

An electrical genius in London has opened the way for a new industry. He projects his advertisements upon the nether surface of the murky firmament of the British metropolis, and his experiments have been, to quote the Daily Telegraph, "deplorably successful." "Our own hope," says the Globe, "is that if the practice of advertising in the heavens should become common, the rival advertisers will make such a hotch-potch of each other's announcements that they will have to give up in despair." As the British real estate owner is proverbially tenacious of his proprietary rights, which from a legal point of view undoubtedly extend to, if not beyond the zenith, there is likely to be litigation growing out of the encroachments upon each other's territories of these disfigurers of the empyrean.

SOUTH WARD CANDIDATES.

They Explain Their Views to the Electors of James Bay at a Meeting Last Evening.

Mayor Beaven Given an Enthusiastic Reception by the James Bay Ratepayers.

The meeting held in the James Bay school house last evening by the candidates for municipal honors in South ward was very well attended. Mr. C. E. Redfern was elected chairman and called upon Ald. Munn to address the meeting.

Ald. Munn said the meeting had been called to give the candidates an opportunity to address the electors. No doubt he had as alderman neglected to do many things that should have been done, but he had not neglected anything willingly. There is a great deal to be done with the revenue, and when what an alderman does is scattered over a large ward it does not make much of a showing. There are about 90 miles of streets in the city, and the council had but $25,000 at their disposal to keep these streets in order. This of course would not go very far. The council of 1892, after wiping out the debt of the city and getting things in order, started with high hopes and for about six months things went along very smoothly. Twenty-five thousand dollars was voted for the streets and bridges, and it was expected that before the end of the year more money would be available for the same purpose. But unfortunately smallpox broke out and it cost the city a lot of money to handle the epidemic. A by-law that he had framed, to borrow $25,000 for streets and bridges, was passed by the ratepayers, but on account of the local improvement by-law this money could only be used for repairing the streets. The by-law, however, accomplished some good, the streets being improved and work being given to the unemployed of the city. He was in favor of the local improvement by-law. It was like the European plan at a hotel; you pay for what you get, no more and no less. It was certainly hard that the residents of the new portions of the city had to pay for their own improvements while the older portions had been improved at the expense of the whole city but that difficulty would be overcome. The local improvement system is nothing new. It has been in use in Toronto for 25 years, but there the city paid one-third of the cost of the improvement while the property holders paid the other two-thirds. It had worked satisfactorily in other cities and there was no reason why it should not do the same in Victoria, as it can be applied here just as fairly as elsewhere. It worked, however, more satisfactorily in the construction of sewers, as in the business portion of the city the sewers had to be buried very deep to drain the cellars, which made the cost double what it would be in the residential portion of the city where there is no need of them being so deep. It would be therefore unfair that the people of the residential portion of the city should have to pay for a deep sewer in the centre of the city while the sewer they used cost so much less. With the local improvement by-law, those who need a deep sewer pay for it and those who do not need a deep sewer do not have to pay for one. If he was a single tax man he would support the local improvement by-law as it only taxed the land, not the improvements, the owner of an empty lot being assessed as much as the owner of a building. There were a great many who opposed the system but he thought that if they looked into it they would find that it worked all right. He did not think there was anything to prevent the council from paying a portion of the cost of an improvement made under the system. Then if the property holders do not want the work done all they have to say is no, and the work is not done. Under the old system there was a certain amount of scrambling amongst the aldermen to obtain appropriations for work in their respective wards. This would be done away with by the local improvement system, as the people received just what improvements they pay for.

Senator Macdonald asked Ald. Munn if it would not be very expensive to manage the system. A staff of clerks would have to be employed to keep the accounts that would be opened with the many different parties interested, and no doubt there would be some trouble in collecting the assessments, which would extend over 20 or 30 years.

Ald. Munn—Of course the accounts would have to be kept, but other cities did not seem to have any difficulty in that direction where the improvement was met in one payment the bookkeeping would be light. There is a great deal of necessity for a better lighting system. For three years the aldermen had been endeavoring to have a by-law passed authorizing them to increase the electric lighting plant, but so far they had not been successful. The cost of maintaining a good system of lighting would be very little more than it costs to maintain a poor system. Something will have to be done this year in this direction. Either a new plant will have to be obtained or a contract entered into with a private company to light the city. There is also need of better fire protection in the residence portions of the city. A number of large buildings had recently been erected in South Ward, and something would have to be done to give them fire protection. An endeavor had been made to place some of the apparatus in the Kingston street hall, but lack of funds blocked the movement. He had taken a great deal of interest in the public parks of the city, and was very sorry that more had not been done to improve them. He would advocate a liberal expenditure on the park, as it was very necessary to have a pleasure ground near the city. Without neglecting Beacon Hill, the citizens should not forget that they have a splendid park at Cedar Hill. He had been speaking to the Hon. J. H. Turner about the parks, and that gentleman had told him that if the city improved the Cedar Hill park, he thought the Government would build a good road around the water front from Dallas road to the Cedar Hill park following the coast line, Oak Bay and Cadboro Bay. This road would connect Beacon Hill, Mount Tolmie and Cedar Hill parks, and make one of the prettiest drives conceivable. When he first entered the council he had advocated the building of a retaining wall across James Bay, and he was still of the opinion that this should be done. In accordance motion of his the city engineer had made a careful examination of James Bay bridge and had reported to the council that it was still good for five years. Notwithstanding this he thought the retaining wall should be begun and the bridge done away with. It had been estimated that a retaining wall built from the west side of Government street across the bay, and then along the water front towards the James Bay Athletic Club would cost $100,000. If this was done the city would have valuable piece of land where the mud flats now are, Government street would be continued right across to Birdcage Walk and there would be a nice espianade on Belleville street. (Applause.) The present bridge originally cost $7500 and $5000 had been spent on it in repairs. In a few days another $2000 would have to be spent on it. If the ratepayers of the South Ward again honored him with their confidence he would give the city affairs all the attention possible.

Senator Macdonald asked Ald. Munn if he was in favor of the tax on improvements.

Ald. Munn thought that the tax should be a very low one. In answer to other questions he stated that he was not in favor of the indiscriminate borrowing of money. For some purposes money would have to be borrowed. In regard to the draining of Superior street, a by-law to do that had been defeated by the people during the past year, but he was certainly in favor of making some move to have the work done.

Ald. Hall was the next speaker. He had just about served his apprenticeship, and he thought it took an alderman at least a year to become acquainted with the working of the council. He had spent a great deal of time for the city's interests. The mayor and aldermen had done their best to prevent the smallpox epidemic. Seattle had been very cautious, but they had an epidemic as bad as Victoria's was. He voted for the local improvement by-law, but since had come to the conclusion that the by-law should be modified. The city should pay a third of the cost of opening a street. The citizens should not be taxed and then made to pay for improvements made to the streets on which their property borders. The tax on improvements should be abolished, although he thought it would take some time to make the change. The electric light plant should be improved and extended. He thought that the principal streets should be paved, as at present the rock put on the streets was soon transformed into mud. He would be in favor of borrowing money to do work of this kind. It is a very necessary thing to have surface drainage, and it was a pity that the surface drainage by-law was defeated. Some help should be extended to any railway company that would build to the city. Six and a half miles of sewerage had been built for about $260,000. The surveyor was now at work on plans for the extension of the sewerage system to James Bay and other portions of the city.

Mr. A. McTavish came before the electors with a blank sheet. He must say that the council of 1892 had had a great deal of trouble with smallpox, etc. The papers had quoted him as saying that he was in favor of increasing salaries. He did not mean to say this. He believed that a good servant deserved good wages. Taxation should be kept within bounds, and the tax on improvements should be lowered, but he thought that if it was abolished it would decrease the revenue too much. The city should pay a percentage of the cost of opening streets. He thought it a pity that the sewerage by-law had been defeated last year. (Applause.) The city should be honeycombed with sewers, as if it were not for our west wind there would always be epidemics here. The waterworks and electric light should be improved. The fire department has been proved to be pretty perfect, but there should be more fire halls. A good vote should be made annually towards keeping up and improving the public library. The streets need some repairing and James Bay bridge needs replacing. The flats should be filled in, but not before a retaining wall was built to prevent the mud dumped there being taken to sea. Money should be borrowed for improving the waterworks, etc., but not for making repairs to the streets.

Mr. A. Henderson had been asked by the citizens' committee to stand for South ward and he had accepted. The candidates of the association are not tied down to any platform. The main question is the subject of sewerage. The quicker the city extends the system of sewerage the better. (Applause.) It was better to trust to the professional men who had made sewers a study all their lives, and we should not say that the sewers are faulty until we know that they are. A sum of money should be borrowed to extend the sewers. The local improvement system, he thought, could not be applied to the building of sewers. It might be that a sewer was needed on Yates street from Government street up. The property owners on the first three blocks might not want a sewer, while the residents of the blocks further up might want the sewer. The local improvement by-law could be used to construct streets and sidewalks, and it was very necessary that the main streets of the city should be paved. A loan for the improvement of the waterworks would be a good investment. It seems a pity that so much had been spent on the city market. At present it is a burden on the city, and something should be done to make it pay. He would like to see the James Bay mud flats filled in. The property reclaimed would pay for the work done. Douglas and Government streets should run right across the flats. He believed that the principal of bonussing was a wrong one. The people should not pay to build one man up when another man had to build himself up. However, in some cases it was necessary for the city to give a bonus. The public park should be improved and other squares laid out. It would pay the city to improve the drives and pleasure resorts around the city. (Applause.) An endeavor should be made to secure the Indian reserve. The city is becoming more and more exposed to disease from the China steamers. The Dominion Government should be prevailed upon to improve the quarantine. The Government might have spent the drill shed money on a quarantine station. Victoria needed the protection from disease more than she needed the protection which the drill shed would provide. The city of Victoria should receive some recognition from the Dominion Government.

Mr. Joshua Holland asked the speaker if he had seen the Council's statement showing that the receipts from the market were $1625 while the expenditure was $1005.

Mr. Henderson was surprised to hear this. He asked those present for their support at the coming election.

Mayor Beaven was glad that Mr. Holland had asked the last speaker if he had read the city's financial statement which appeared in the TIMES. There was a certain misapprehension regarding the market. He did not suppose that there was a gentleman in the hall who knew before he read the financial statement that the city had not lost money on the market. In the course of time he hoped that the market would be a source of revenue to the city. It did not, of course, pay the amount of the interest and the sinking fund, but there was a balance when all other expenses had been paid. There was also an impression that the water works pays a big surplus. This is an erroneous impression altogether. One of the most interesting matters brought up by the previous speakers was the scheme outlined by Ald. Munn to reclaim the James Bay mud flats. There was no doubt that with good management and a little financial aid the city could make a good deal of money by filling in the flats. When on the Sound he took the opportunity of ascertaining how they reclaimed mud flats there. He found that they dredged the harbor and reclaimed the flats at the same time. A retaining wall is built and a big pump goes to work and pumps the mud from the harbor on to the flats. If this was done the city would be well paid. Douglas street could also be extended across the flats and divide the reclaimed land into blocks. Of course no council could do this out of the general revenue so it all rests with the electors who would have to give the council power to borrow the money to do the work. He noticed that all the speakers had sketched schemes for the spending of money but no one had said how the revenue was to be increased. It was all very well to say that they would do all these things. He might say that he would do them all without the funds, but then he would be insulting the intelligence of the audience. Additional light was needed all over the city, but when a by-law had been placed before the citizens they had said "No, we do not want it." It would be seen by the financial statement that the first amount to be taken out of the city revenue is $83,000 on account of the debt. The largest portion of the taxes are paid before the first of December, which is near the end of the financial year. The act therefore gives the council power to borrow money from the bank at a certain rate of interest in anticipation of the revenue. By comparing this year's statement with last year's it will be seen that much less interest was paid on the overdraft during 1892 than was paid during 1891. This was due to the good management of the board of aldermen who deserve great credit for it, as quite an amount was

A lady, who, by the way, is the wife of an M.P. in one our B. I thought if this is really the case it must be a good medicine. I bought a bottle and found it all that is claimed for it. My husband who has been troubled with a severe bronchial cough for a long time, used it with the most surprising results."

Rev. Mr. Williams Heartily Endorses Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We are pleased to present this from Rev. A. A. Williams, of the Sillsbee street Christian Church, Lynn, Mass.:

"I see no reason why a clergyman, more than a layman, who knows whereof he speaks, should hesitate to approve an

Article of Merit

and worth, from which he or his family have been signally benefited, and whose commendation may serve to extend those benefits to others by increasing their confidence. My wife has for many years been a sufferer from severe

Nervous Headache

for which she found little help. She has tried many things that promised well but performed little. Last fall a friend gave her a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems surprising what simply one bottle could and did do for her. The attacks of headache decreased in number and were less violent in their intensity, while her general health has been improved. Her appetite has also been better. From our experience with

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have no hesitation in endorsing its merits."

saved for the city in this way. The legal expenses during 1892 were $1900 less than they were in 1891, although the council of 1892 passed more by-laws and amended more than the previous council. This shows that the city's money was well expended. Ald. Lovell and Hall of the finance committee had spent a great deal of time over the accounts and had dealt with them as business men. When a man is elected to the position of alderman he has to make up his mind that he will have to spend a great deal of time at the city hall if he intends to look after the city's business. Ald. Hunter had said that the provisions of the local improvement by-law had been taken from the Municipal Act which he, the mayor, had framed. This was perfectly true, but how did it come about? He placed these provisions in the act because he was convinced when speaking to the electors at the last election that they did not wish to borrow any more money for sewerage purposes. The north ward ratepayers and many in the other wards would have voted against any loan to complete the sewers. The residents of the outside portions of the city naturally enough said, "why $500,000 has already been spent, our property is mortgaged to pay the debt and we have not been benefitted by it." He felt it his duty to devise some means by which the sewers could be built. The principal object was to apply the system to sewerage, but it was so fixed in the act that it could be applied to other improvements. During 1892 a $300,000 sewerage loan by-law was placed before the people. He was sure that if the voters had understood that by-law they would have come to the conclusion that it was the most economical way of sewering the portion of the city for which it was intended. It was understood when the by-law passed the council that the property owners benefitted by the sewers should pay the interest and sinking fund of the loan. This was not mentioned in the by-law because it would have been much easier to negotiate the loan if a clause to that effect was inserted. The by-law provided for the borrowing of $500,000 for 50 years at 4 per cent. There is no scheme so economical. When the by-law was defeated the only remedy left to the Council was to apply the local improvement system, which they did. The system is in vogue all over the American continent, and he and the aldermen had studied the matter thoroughly before passing the by-law. It would be impossible to improve the city without applying the system. He had been in accord with it 25 years ago, but the people were not in favor of it at that time. He tried to incorporate it in the first municipal act, but without success. If it had been adopted at that time it would have been far easier to carry it out. (Applause.) The early residents of the city had to pay for the improvements to their streets out of their own pockets, but now the city pays for them. He had been told by many that they had voted against the $300,000 sewerage by-law because they did not believe that the system was a success. What the next Council should do was to have all the houses along the line of the present sewer connected with the system, and then the sewers could be thoroughly tested. Of course, everybody knew that clear water would run through any sewer. If the system proved a success, after having been thoroughly tested, the citizens would be encouraged to go on with the work. (Applause.) There are many things that could be done to improve the city, and he thought that it took an alderman a year at least to find out what is really needed. The retiring aldermen had worked very assiduously. They had held a great many meetings and done a great deal of laborious work, more in fact than was incumbent upon the legislature. He knew he had an opponent in the present contest and he knew the gentleman personally, but he had not yet had an opportunity of meeting him on a public platform, therefore he did not know what his views are.

A voice—"Who is he?"

Mayor Beaven, continuing, said that he saw in the papers that a gentleman was advocating his opponent's cause by connecting him with the water works. He did not like to speak behind a man's back, but he would just like to meet Mr. Dalby on the platform, when he, the Mayor, would tell something about Mr. Dalby's experience with the water works. The only man who had yet spoken against him, was one of his oldest friends in the province, John Grant. The city had been very unfortunate during the year, having been visited by a small-pox epidemic. Would they believe it? The city had not one inch of ground on which it could build a quarantine hospital. What is needed is a place where the hospital can be erected without molestation from the courts, and a good building that could be successfully fumigated should be erected. This will be one of the first things that the next council will have to do. He agreed with much of what Mr. Henderson said in regard to quarantine. Victoria being a seaport town was, of course, visited by ships and steamers from foreign ports. The Dominion Government has a very competent quarantine officer stationed here, but he is very likely hampered by the Dominion laws. The China steamers bring a large number of Chinamen to the province. The Government gets the $50 head tax and the city gets the Chinamen and the disease that they bring from their country. (Applause.) The legislators should be made to place a $500 head tax on Chinamen and then the white laborers would be benefitted and Chinese would be kept out of the city. (Applause.)

Dr. Milne thought the candidates should promise to extend Douglas street across the mud flats. At present there is only a narrow bridge between James Bay and the centre of the city, which often makes it very awkward for the residents of James Bay. Something should be done to do away with the bridge. (Applause.) The meeting then adjourned after a vote of thanks to the chairman had been passed.

THE MINISTERS SPOKE

But Said Very Little at the Toronto Board of Trade Banquet.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—The Toronto Board of Trade banquet to-night in the Horticultural Pavilion Music Hall, was an unqualified success in every way. Covers were laid for 650 guests. The hall was very tastefully decorated, the prevailing colors being red, white and blue. The guests' table was ornamented with a model railroad train with a station, semaphores, telegraph poles, a number of model yachts and steamboats, with other equally apt tokens of trade and commerce. The galleries were crowded with ladies and their escorts.

The principal speech was by Sir John Thompson, who, in referring to the trade question, said he trusted that they would follow a policy which would make the people south of them "the best of neighbors, but," added he, "please God they shall never be anything else but neighbors." What the policy was to be, it would be well to wait and see what the new government across the line would do, though they did not, of course, need to look elsewhere for a policy. The policy of the future might be reciprocity with the States, but if it was it must be upon better terms than was offered to himself and his colleagues 11 months ago, when they were asked to forget the ties of the empire and adopt discredited McKinleyism, which the States themselves were about to cast off. He had been asked whether he considered the Nation Policy perfection. He replied unhesitatingly, "No, he knew no tariff system which was perfection."

The minister of finance, Mr. Foster, replied to the toast of "Agriculture, Manufacture and Commerce." He went into details of figures and official returns to show the steady advance of Canada during several years, quoting considerably from the blue books. He argued that the value of technical schools is in training men who enter upon agriculture, manifacture and commercial pursuits, and in conclusion expressed his strong disapproval of any idea of Canadian independence, which would be suicidal in the extreme. Individually he was a British subject and refused to be separated from the noble Empire, her traditions, her present prosperity and future prospects of greatness.

The "Sister Provinces" was the next toast presented, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier replying. He received a cordial reception. In the course of his speech Mr. Laurier said that a writer (Mr. Goldwin Smith) had recently said that the Liberal was a party distinctly American to day, as the Tories were anti-American and European. He (the speaker) took this, his first opportunity since this utterance, to deny the truth of that statement. Neither party was distinctly American, but distinctly Canadian, and resolved not to give half the continent of America to anyone else.

Mr. W. C. Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, responded to the toast, "Railways and Shipping Interests." He dwelt upon the necessity of a faster Atlantic service and demonstrated by his company's experience with their Pacific boats that a fast line would draw trade and pay dividends. He declared it possible without any great revolution of present conditions, to carry passengers from the wharf of Quebec to Euston Station, London, in five days and 12 hours, and said that such a service would add 10 per cent. to the value of the exportable produce of the Dominion. This was not a party question and he trusted that public men and journals advocating a faster service would no longer be charged with being in the pay of the Canadian Pacific railway. His company were not anxious to undertake the work. They would rather one of the existing steamship companies would do it, or if the Canadian Pacific Company did take part in it, he hoped that the Grand Trunk railway would join them. But one thing was certain, the service had got to come by some means. Mr. Van Horne was heard with the closest attention and frequently applauded.

Delahaye Tells His Story.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—M. Delahaye publishes this morning an important letter narrating how he received the commission to expose the Panama scandal. A certain person came to him, he says, with a fac simile of the original list of 172 senators and deputies who had accepted Panama bribes. The list was shown to him, however, upon the condition that he should not reveal the names, but merely take steps to compel the Chamber of Deputies itself to undertake the exposure. M. Delahaye says that the subsequent events amply confirmed all the statements of his informant. He adds that much more remains to be revealed. Several newspapers this morning predict the arrest of more deputies and senators on Monday. The police were busy between 1 and 3 o'clock this morning destroying incendiary placards posted by the anarchists. These placards called upon the people to rise at once, seize arms, destroy their corrupt oppressors and seize the reins of government. A feeling of alarm was apparent throughout the city last evening. General Saussier, military governor of the city, has taken every possible precaution.

No flowery rhetoric can tell the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as well as the cures accomplished by this excellent medicine.

NOTES FROM THE EAST.

Cold Weather—Orangemen and the Premier—The Howe Murder.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—At the criminal assize this morning Patrick Fenton was found guilty on a charge of manslaughter preferred against him in connection with the shooting of Minnie Davis at Highland Creek on Christmas day. At the assizes here yesterday in the case of Herbert Britton, on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of William Jones, Eglinton, the grand jury returned no bill.

Three ice boats and 15 men got into the open water while sailing a race in the storm on Toronto bay yesterday, and George Ackroyd was seriously injured.

ST. JOHN, Jan. 6.—Major Howe, of Boston, whose wife was shot and killed while the couple were in a canoe on the Tobique River on a fishing trip, is in town. A man of the name of Phillipine is in the penitentiary for killing Mrs. Howe, the evidence being that Phillipine claimed that he had been wronged in not being permitted to fish in the river. A Fredericton, N.B., paper has printed a story to the effect that it was not Phillipine, but Major Howe himself, who committed the murder. Howe, it is said, is here to institute proceedings for libel, and has retained Attorney-General Blair as his attorney.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Jan. 6.—The Leamington Orange lodge has passed resolutions disapproving of Grand Master Wallace's acceptance of a Government office which deprives him of a voice in Sir John Thompson's Roman Catholic cabinet, and denouncing Mackenzie Bowell's exhibition of the white feather in accepting a senatorship given him to get him out of the way.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Yesterday was the coldest day here this season, the thermometer reaching 18 below zero.

BEAVERTON, Jan. 6.—J. M. Gordon, general merchant, seriously injured by a train, has had his left arm amputated.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—The net debt has decreased $616,000 in the month. The surplus of revenue over expenditure for the six months of the current fiscal year was $4,716,000, or an increase of $800,000 in the month.

Argument on the Manitoba school question will be heard at the full meeting of the Privy Council on the 21st instant.

THE EX-POLICE MAGISTRATE AS A CANDIDATE FOR ALDERMANIC HONORS.

TO THE EDITOR:—Some few months since Mr. Belyea filled the office of P. M. ably and efficiently, but owing to the insufficiency of leisure at his disposal he resigned the appointment, though the salary was $2400 per annum. Mr. Belyea now comes to ask the electors of the central ward to send him to represent their interests at the next council, to do which—if recent utterances of the ex-aldermen are true—will absorb far more time than the morning trip to the police court, which trip should have been, and doubtless was, beneficial to a member of a profession whose habits are of necessity somewhat sedentary. But the salary in this new capacity will only be $200 per annum, and men are usually actuated by motives sometimes mercenary, sometimes ambitious; it may be the latter, as it certainly cannot be the former. Ambition for power, certainly not professional or social status, may be the motive. If so, to what end will the power be used? What machinery will it drive? Mr. Belyea may think well to inform his hearers on this point at the next ward meeting which he will have the honor of addressing, for I hear many are anxious to know.

BLUE NOSE.

Denounces the Encyclical.

ROME, Jan. 5.—The Courier Del Matino says the leading topic at Rome is the fiasco of Mgr. Satolli's mission from the Vatican to the United States. The Courier article says: Mgr. Satolli's manner has excited discontent among the American bishops, who caused the curia to understand that they will not tolerate the arrogance of the envoy. The Vatican, therefore, for fear of causing greater friction, will be obliged to recall Mgr. Satolli instead of having him remain in America to represent the Pope at the Chicago World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Archbishop Ireland in an interview this afternoon denounced the alleged encyclical letter going the rounds of the country purporting to be from the Pope, as spurious and false in every particular. The document represents the Pope as calling upon the priests and laymen of the United States to use their influence as citizens of America in securing for the Pope complete control over the temporalities of this country.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 5.—The interesting fact is ascertained from an unquestionable source of information, that the European mail delivered at the Catholic university to-day brought to Mgr. Satolli, Papal delegate, instructions broadening and widening his powers, and imposing upon him new duties and responsibilities which must necessarily occupy his attention to the exclusion of all but the most urgent business for some time to come.

MANITOBA'S CASE.

A few days ago Mr. Goldwin Smith, when talking of immigration matters, said:—

If Manitoba and the Northwest want to be peopled and to prosper let them cultivate political independence. At the present they allow themselves to be bribed or bullied into the support of a policy of isolation which they know to be their bane. They actually sent up representatives to Ottawa to vote for the retention of a railway monopoly by which they were being ruined, and they were set free, not by their own effort, but by the interposition of the Home Government through the Governor-General.

It was certainly remarkable that Manitoba should have persisted in sending men to Ottawa to vote for the Government that imposed a railway monopoly upon her, while all the time complaining grievously about that monopoly. It is equally remarkable to see Manitoba and the Northwest now sending a solid contingent of members to support the Government that fleeces them unmercifully through the agency of the tariff. The explanation is that which Goldwin Smith so pithily gives—the people allow themselves to be fleeced because the Government doles out bribes with the hand that is not engaged in the fleecing operation. But another point of interest in Mr. Goldwin Smith's remarks is his direct statement that the Manitobans were freed from the railway monopoly not by their own efforts but by the interposition of the Imperial Government through the Governor-General. The Winnipeg Free Press supplements this with the further information that the intervention of the Imperial Government was caused by representations made to it by Goldwin Smith himself, a fact which his modesty would not allow him to include in his statement. It is not generally known that the Imperial Government did intervene on behalf of Manitoba at Mr. Smith's instance, so that his own statement and that of the Free Press will come as a surprise to a good many people. It is probably too much to say, though, that the railway monopoly was removed solely through this cause. The practical rebellion of the people of Manitoba, the efforts of their one faithful representative at Ottawa, Mr. Watson, had something to do with the removal; so had the impression which the Dominion Government at last received that the idea of crushing down the Manitobans perpetually was repugnant to the people of Canada in general. On the other hand there can be no doubt whatever that the monopoly would never have been abolished if the Dominion Government's unassisted intelligence and sense of fairness had been left to decide the matter. The intervention of the Imperial Government may have hastened the remedy in the case of the railway monopoly, but the people of the prairies must necessarily depend on themselves for a remedy for their fiscal burdens. There are plenty of indications that they will exert themselves to procure a remedy for their tariff ills when next election comes, and that they will be neither bribed nor bullied into another surrender of their independence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Poor Sir Adolphe Caron speaking of the election of Mr. Tarte in L'Islet, said that "he and his friends fought their best, but had been disappointed." Langevin and Chapleau will find some amusement in that utterance.

Premier Thompson and Finance Minister Foster seem to have used a good many words in the conveyance of a very small amount of information at the banquet of the Toronto Board of Trade. At least that is the impression to be gained from the telegraphic report. Only one thing in Sir John's speech was significant, namely his admission that he did not regard the "national policy" as perfect. This was a considerable admission for a Tory minister to make, and it indicates that Sir John appreciates to some extent the state of public opinion. He does not appear, however, to have laid down any particular plan for the reformation of the policy. The public, we are afraid, will not be much the wiser for the two ministerial deliverances at Toronto.

IS A WHOLESALE TRADER.

Magistrate Macrae Gives Judgment Against T. B. Pearson This Morning.

T. B. Pearson is, in the eyes of the law, a wholesaler. At least that is the judgment of Police Magistrate Macrae, delivered in the police court this morning. Mr. Pearson was fined $25 and ordered to pay his $50 license fee. The text of the judgment is: "In this case Mr. T. B. Pearson is charged on the information of Mr. E. C. Smith, Assistant Collector for the city, with carrying on the business of a wholesale trader without a license in that behalf in terms of "The Revenue By-law. 1889."

It was proved that the defendant was engaged in supplying in large and small parcels to clothiers, dealers in gents' furnishings and other tradesmen, goods manufactured by him, to be retailed by them to their customers. It was not proved that he was in the habit of selling goods in the form in which they were purchased by him, or that he sold directly to consumers.

Beyond question Mr. Pearson is a trader, for he makes a business of buying and selling. Equally beyond question, to my mind, he is a "wholesale trader" within the meaning of Bacon, V.C. in Treacher v. Treacher, W. N. (74), 5, "As a general rule wholesale merchants deal only with persons who buy to sell again, while retail merchants deal with consumers." Within the meaning of Begbie, C.J., in Smith v. Heath (Colonist, 13th August, 1892), "There is no doubt that a merchant who sells in large quantities to another trader in order that the second may distribute piecemeal to the actual consumers is a wholesale merchant." And within the meaning of the by-law.

Wholesale traders who happen to be also manufacturers are not exempted either by the municipal act or the revenue by-law from the obligation to pay the license fee.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR,—The slow spirit on the school question in this city is proverbial. Is there nothing else to discuss at our public meetings but sewerage and finance? Where are our school trustees? Have they got nothing to say about the education of our children and our present ward schools? Have they got no platform? Has this state of things to go on as one writer says, from the flood to the "glacier period?" There is time yet for three or four energetic school trustees to come out before nomination and adopt a platform something like this, viz.: (1) To sell present ward schools and property; (2), procure spacious school grounds in the centre of each ward; (3), build one $20,000 two story school in the centre of each ward with all modern improvements; (4) no compulsory home lessons, pupils to be taught at school; (5), teachers' salaries to be reduced if compulsory home lessons continue; (6), to have strictly temperate teachers.

Frightened the Guests.

Louis Hokonson created a stir at the Telegraph hotel, Store street, this morning. Hakonson entered the rooms of guests and ordered them downstairs. He entered the room of two ladies and turned them out. The frightened females screamed and were heard in the office. Landlord Merryfield rushed upstairs and brought Hokonson down with him. Hokonson was turned over to the police and is in the city lockup waiting medical examination. It is thought he is insane, as he has been acting queerly. He had in his pocket 85c. and a ticket from Tacoma by the steamer Victoria to Hong Kong. The ticket was dated Dec. 19th last. There was also a receipt from Joseph Carpenter for the rent of cabin No. 8 of Carpenter's cabins for one month. Hokonson's name was on an envelope of the Cosmopolitan Employment Office of Tacoma; this envelope was addressed to Hokonson at 108 A street, Tacoma. He is now in the lockup and will be examined for insanity.

WHO DID THE DEED?

An Incendiary Sets Fire to Robert McDonald's House on the Gorge Road.

William McDonald Arrested Charged With Arson—The Charge Withdrawn.

Arson was attempted this morning. The circumstances are so palpable that no other idea could suggest itself.

It was shortly after three o'clock when the two-story frame house on the Gorge road owned by Robert McDonald was discovered on fire. The fire was discovered by a resident in the neighborhood who was returning home and noticed the blaze in the rear of the house. He gave the alarm and other residents were aroused, and began energetically working at the fire. Chief Deasy, who had been telephoned, rang for the chemical, and the fire was soon extinguished.

Then an examination was made, and this is what was found. The plaster was broken from the bottom of the walls in twelve places and left the laths bare. The space burned was two feet square. In this space had been placed old rags and shavings well saturated with coal oil. The rags were still smouldering and there was a strong odor of kerosene. Unburned shavings were also scattered around. The house was unoccupied, the front door was open, and the back door was off its hinges. In the rear downstairs room was an unmade bed and a few chairs. In the back yard were found a stove, chairs and other furniture. In the shed was a lighted hand lamp and a five-gallon coal oil can with a little coal oil.

The house is valued at $2000, but was only damaged to the extent of $50.

Robert McDonald, the owner, could not be found, and has not been seen. William J. McDonald, shoemaker, and brother of Robert McDonald, was arrested by Sergt. Levin at 5 o'clock this morning, charged with arson. He is said not to have given a satisfactory account of his whereabouts. Sergt. Levin in the police court this morning asked that the charge be withdrawn, but did not give reasons. Magistrate Macrae handed Levin the information against McDonald, and Levin tore it up. Mr. Macrae said that McDonald was not up before him, and McDonald stepped from the prisoners' box.

BY THE GRANT PROCESS.

Likelihood of the Tacoma Wreckers Tackling the San Pedro.

There is a prospect of another set of managers taking hold of the sunken collier, San Pedro. One of the Grant brothers, of Tacoma, inventors of the famous cylinders which expand and collapse, accompanied by Capt. John O'Brien, who is now identified with them, Capt. Buckman, the Victoria pilot, and another gentleman from Tacoma, were here the other day and made a survey of the wreck. They will talk business to the Southern Pacific after they confer at Tacoma. The visit to Victoria and the inspection of Pedro was kept very quiet. The raising of the Premier has increased the Grant brothers' already great confidence in their apparatus, and if given an opportunity they will unquestionably make a trial.

Eye Specialist.

Mr. L. G. Chamberlain, eye specialist, college graduate of Philadelphia, is expected to arrive in Victoria on Monday, and to remain till Saturday, January 14th, making his headquarters at Langley & Co., druggists. Mr. Chamberlain has made a life study of the eye and everything which affects the sight, so that he is thoroughly competent to detect any imperfections that may exist in the use of that important and delicate organ. Weakness in the eyes or defects in the vision are often the cause of much unpleasantness, which is usually attributed to other causes, which can be remedied by the use of properly fitted spectacles. Mr. Chamberlain also has the only ophthalmometer in Canada, an instrument by which the defect in the eyesight through ophthalmia is ascertained accurately, and once that is learned the proper means can be applied for its correction. He may be consulted at any time between the hours of 8 30 a.m. and 10 p.m.

Mr. Bishop Selected.

At a meeting of the ratepayers of Victoria West held last evening Mr. Caleb Bishop was selected as the nominee from that portion of the city for candidate for alderman in the north ward at the coming election. Mr. Fairall, the other aspirant, was defeated by a vote of 31 to 40. The meeting also ratified the nomination of Mr. Bishop as a candidate for school trustee.

Favorite Comic Operas.

Francois Von Suppe gave more merriment to the generation of Frenchmen that is just now on the home stretch of its career, than any one man who set about entertaining it. All his comic operas have possessed two very popular and taking characteristics, catchy melodies and a wealth of lively incident. Notably Fatinitza and Said Pasha, which are two of the pieces to be presented at the Victoria next week beginning Tuesday evening. The sale of seats has been excellent.

Horsey Cases.

There were a couple of what the Chief Justice terms "horsey" cases in the county court this afternoon. Horsemen after having "put up jobs" to rob the public quarrelled over the spoils and the cases were taken into court. The witnesses were induced to tell of many little tricks of the track. One witness said: "Well, you know, Judge, it was put up dat de best horse was to win." Another said, "I put a nigger on de horse and de nigger pulled him."

Parliament Opens.

Second session of the Y.M.C.A. Mock Parliament opens this evening. The new cabinet is: Leader of the House, P. W. Cregg; Minister of Public Works and Secretary of State, R. Hay; Minister of Finance, W. Farmer; Minister of Customs, W. F. C. Pope; Postmaster-General, J. Sinclair; Minister of Militia and Defence, F. W. Davey; Minister of Agriculture, F. W. Teague.

Burns' Anniversary Concert.

Arrangements have been completed for the celebration of Burns' anniversary by the choir of the First Presbyterian Church, in one of their popular Scotch concerts, on the evening of the 24th inst. Burns' birthday falls on the 25th inst., but owing to Mr. J. C. Brown's engagement at Vancouver on that evening the choir concert had to be held on the 24th. Amongst those who will take part are such well-known vocalists as Miss O'Neil, Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. Grant, Mr. Watson (leader of the Baptist Church choir), Mr. W. Allan, the inimitable Scotch reader. Madame Laird, who sang so well at the Hogmanay concert, has also consented to sing; and Mr. Russell, late organist and choirmaster of the Pandora avenue Methodist Church, will also appear. The choir have been working hard upon some four-part Scotch songs, and under the able tuition of Mr. Brown will acquit themselves well. Mr. Brown will sing some of his popular Scotch songs. Mrs. Cochrane, the distinguished pianist, will also take part, and Miss A. Brown will give a violin solo comprising Scotch airs. Last year many were compelled to go away as the hall was completely filled, not even standing room could be had. This has been provided for by having a gallery placed in the schoolroom capable of seating at least another hundred.

COUNTY COURT.

The Mechanics' Lien Act Before Chief Justice Sir M. B. Begbie.

D. F. Adams vs. Simeon Duck—The plaintiff, D. F. Adams, filed two mechanics' liens against the defendant's property for over $6000 and this was an action to enforce the liens against the property known as the Duck Block, a dispute arising between the plaintiff and the defendant. Mr. Belyea opened the case for the plaintiff stating that he would first establish the mechanics liens before proceeding with the claim for work done, for which an action was still pending in the Supreme Court, and was about to put Mr. Adams in the box when Mr. S. Perry Mills, for Mr. S. Duck, submitted that it would save the time of the court if the office copies of the liens were put in evidence at once, and he would raise the point that the liens were invalid and not in conformity with the liens act. His Lordship the Chief Justice ruled accordingly. Mr. Mills then took his objection and supported the same by the decision of the Chief Justice in the case of Haggerty and Grant vs. Duck and an Ontario case. Mr. Belyea replied. His Lordship held that the point taken was fatal to the liens and dismissed the action with costs.

Pacific Portland Cement.

We learn that the preliminary stage of manufacture and tests of this cement, which F. G. Jordan, C.E., has been conducting in this city for some months past, is now almost complete, and the results attained by the experiments have more than verified the fact that it is possible to manufacture, out of England, a "Portland cement" equal to the "London standard quality," viz., of 333 pounds per square inch tensile strength, weight 112 pounds per bushel, and in fineness to pass a sieve of 2500 mesh per square inch, with not more than 10 per cent. residue. Mr. Jordan's cement is also devoid of any deleterious chemical properties so frequently contained in English Portland cement, as sulphuric acid, excess of magnesia, etc., which act destructively upon work in which they may be used. This Pacific Portland cement is also positively "pacific" when subjected to the constancy test, (a sample of which may be seen at the office, 6 Bastion Square) and answers the question often asked, if cement either contracts or expands in setting, and also demonstrates the value of our local materials for such an industry, which if skilfully controlled by specialists, maintaining the quality standard, must assuredly win for Victoria the control of the cement markets of the Pacific, and add millions of dollars to her capital, and justifies the proposals shortly to be made to the people of Victoria to provide for establishing this industry near the city. It is well known the cement industry is one of England's most prosperous, and has added millions of pounds to the wealth of Great Britain, whilst enriching those who encouraged it. Such a precedent should be an incentive to all who have the true progress of Victoria to heart at come forward and assist in its foundation here.

Thev Hate the Jews.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—A great anti-Semitic meeting was held at the Tivoli Vauxhall this evening. The hall was packed and the first two speakers were received apparently with enthusiasm. The principal speaker of the evening was the Marquis de Mores, who began his address with a general onslaught on the Jews as the corruptors of French honesty and the haters of French honor. A tremendous uproar greeted these assertions and about 50 men started forward to dispute with the Marquis on the platform. At the steps to the platform they met some 30 partisans of the Libre Parole group, who showed fight. Police Commissary Vernon announced that unless the disorder ceased he must dissolve the meeting, and a short lull followed. The Marquis de Mores continued at some length on Socialism and strikes, and then suddenly returned to the subject of the Jews, with the declaration that were it not for them and other capitalists like them the question would be solved easily. The Jews, he said, brought about the state of affairs which was culminating in the Panama scandal. They rejoiced in injuring French reputations. The rest of the audience cheered or shouted for order that the speaker might proceed. The Marquis, whose voice had been partially inaudible for several minutes before the outbreak, could not be heard by those almost at arm's length, although he continued talking and gesticulating. Eventually the Libre Parole crowd made a rush for the principal disturbers, upsetting and smashing the seats and trampling down all who were in their way. Two bodies of policemen, each a hundred strong, then came in and cleared the hall.

GET IT FROM THE ROOF.

Deputy Smith Objects to $80 for Water Supply for the Marine Hospital.

He Tells Them to Use Roof Water—A Strong Resolution by the Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade, after the TIMES went to press yesterday afternoon, passed a resolution regarding the Albert Head quarantine, for submission to the Dominion Government. The resolution read:—

"That this Board learns with surprise and regret that the accommodation at the quarantine station at Albert Head is still totally inadequate in every respect; that in quarantining the Northern Pacific liner Tacoma the Chinese were placed in the sheds without any means whatever of cooking their food under cover; that the steamship company were compelled to supply food and furnish guards to see that the Dominion regulations were carried out; and that the accommodation was such as no human being should have been forced to accept.

"Resolved, that this board urge the Dominion Government to take immediate steps to place the quarantine station at either Albert or William Head in such a condition that the quarantining of steamers may be carried out in an effective manner. Owing to the increasing trade with the Orient, and the constant danger of the introduction of contagious diseases therefrom, it is absolutely essential that complete quarantine facilities should at once be furnished.

"And further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be handed to the city's representatives at Ottawa, and that they be requested to immediately lay the matter before the Government."

THEY CALL IT A HOSPITAL.

Robert Ward spoke of the disagreeable condition of the Marine Hospital. It was worked on the farming-out system. The caretaker was paid $500 salary and allowed $5 weekly for the keep of a patient. The whole place was in a wretched condition. Only one room was fit for occupancy. There was no water on the premises. The Indians supplied it. There were 55 patients and the Government last year made $2000 profit. The Government collected two cents a ton duty on entering cargoes which went to the Marine Hospital fund.

Col. Prior told the meeting that Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries Smith, when asked to put in water, replied that it would be outrageous to pay $80 to put in water. "You should," he continued, "be able to get enough rain water from the roof." (Laughter.)

The following resolution was passed by the board:

"The present apparently unsatisfactory condition of the Marine Hospital at the port of Victoria having been brought to the notice of this Board,

"Resolved, that the attention of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries be directed thereto, and that he be respectfully asked to cause an official inquiry into the working of that institution, keeping in view the absolute necessity of proper care and provision for sick mariners left at this port."

The Chinese and the Siwash.

The programme for the entertainment in the Market Hall next Saturday evening in aid of St. Luke's church is a good one. It includes an exhibition by the fire department. Tugs of war between the Navy and Civilians, the Garrison Artillery and C Battery, and the police and fire departments. There will also be a pull between a Siwash and a Chinese team.

The Revised Version.

Sutton's double Uncle Tom's Cabin company with two Topsies, two Markses, two bloodhounds and two donkeys, played at the Victoria last evening. Mr. Sutton in picking out pairs overlooked something important to Victoria theatre-goers. He neglected to engage two people who could properly be called actors or actresses. The show is superlatively and sublimely "rank." It is so miserable that it is funny. Sitting in the auditorium one feels so amused that he would like to contribute something besides his admission fee—his chair, for instance. The play has a redeeming feature. All of the performers are fine-looking. The women are beautiful and the men are perfect Apollos. But the women are far and away the prettier. They are ravishingly beautiful. Their faces are studies. The "bluu" hounds look more like big well-fed butcher dogs than anything else, and one of the two donkeys "pulled up lame" after his walk on the stage. The show should be well patronized to-day and to-night. It is such a burlesque on the beautiful story of Harriet Beecher Stowe that it is really comical.

Merriment at Boleskin School.

Boleskin school house off Saanich road was the scene of a merry party on Wednesday evening, the room being very prettily decorated and a stage erected. The first part of the programme consisted of songs by Messrs. Firth, Twiss, Dudgeon, Ferris and Mrs. Russell, all being loudly applauded. Mrs. Theobold and Mr. Watt presiding at the piano; violin, Mr. Graham and Mr. Abbott. The most interesting part was the tableau representation of the Statute of Liberty by Miss L. Harrap. Mistletoe bough by Mrs. Foster and Miss L. and N. Harrap, all of which received rounds of applause. The room being cleared for dancing, many couples danced till far on in the morning, to music supplied by Mrs. Theobold and Messrs. Graham, Abbott and Oscar Sear. Refreshments were served during the evening and many requests for another such party were made, it being the most successful ever held in the neighborhood.

A WOMAN ON TENNYSON.

A Critical Analysis of the Philosophy of the Late English Poet Laureate.

An English Woman Compares the Work of Tennyson with That of a Predecessor.

Although every great poet is, first of all, artist rather than moralist, scientist or philosopher, yet the content of his work, despite any conscious purpose, must be either moral or immoral—either true to nature or false to it—and if the poet go below the surface of things his poem must inevitably be more or less metaphysical. Homer's "Iliad" gives us not only the story of the Trojan war, but it embodies an entire system of ethics, theology and philosophy. The same is true of Dante's great poem. Shakespeare's universe comprehends the two worlds—the physical and the metaphysical. The awful mystery by which man is surrounded, his relation to the invisible power or powers on which he is dependent, together with the obligations arising from those relations, form no small part of Shakespeare's plays, vital as they are with life and action.

It is in poems like "Locksley Hall," "The Two Voices" and "In Memoria," that Tennyson's religious and philosophical opinions are to be found. Other poems, "The May Queen," for instance, show deep religious sentiment, but as the words are put in the mouth of another they may or may not express the convictions of the author. "Locksley Hall," less argumentative than the "Two Voices" or "In Memoriam," pleads for the larger life of the individual in the life and purposes of the race. Thwarted and disappointed in his individual desires, man is to find satisfaction in the welfare and progress of humanity. There is a touch of positivism in this—a hint of that philosophy which controlled and limited George Eliot's horizon—a conception of man's individual welfare and destiny as lost, in furthering the welfare of posterity, which posterity in turn must lose its own for the welfare of another posterity, and so on ad infinitum. If individual existence be limited to no larger life than is to be found in the life of the race, the pessimist might well put in his plea and urge that at one stroke an end be made of all this human striving which has no other object in view than its own restlessness. Taken, however, in connection with other poems by Tennyson, it is evident that the sentiment expressed in "Locksley Hall" is not in sympathy with positivism or pessimism. The individual does not lose himself in the race, but on the contrary finds himself linked with it, working with it in the pursuit of

> One far-off divine event,
> To which the whole creation moves.

"The Two Voices" embodies in exquisite music the boldest statements of Darwin, Huxley and Spencer. The doubts suggested by the latest scientific investigations are faced and answered in a way that meets the demands of the time. The one voice asserts that man is but a unit in the great order of evolution; that there is no more evidence of design or providential care for than for the merest insect. Man dies as the insect, and the world moves on as before; man, with all his strivings and aspirations, does not make an ^real gain; the scale of perfection is infinite and man might as well stop short of it at one point as at another; desire for perfection leads only to feverish effort and inevitable failure; any so-called noble aspiration or heroic effort is in reality only a quickening of the blood; the joys which saints and martyrs have known were not because they had sure grounds for hope, but because their natures were more gently tuned, the elementary atoms in them circulated more freely than in others. As to the belief in immortality, if the soul can exist apart from the body where was the soul before the body was formed, and what reason is there for belief in a future state ir there ba no evidence of a previous stage of existence?

To all of which the other voice replies in a question which carries a weight of assurance against the negative testimony of the senses:

> Who forged that other influence,
> The heart of inward evidence,
> By which man doubts against the sense.
> Here sits he shaping wings to fly;
> His heart forebodes a mystery;
> He names the name Eternity.

Man's consciousness of an infinite power; his idea of a perfection that exists nowhere in the visible world; his unconquerable belief, in spite of doubts, that all labor is working to a final purpose, which purpose is good; his insatiable desire for larger, freer life—all these give evidence of the reality of the soul and its high destiny with a conviction which the testimony of the senses may shake but cannot overthrow.

Tennyson makes little appeal to the external world for an answer to questions which with him find the surest response in his own consciousness. He does not deny the force of arguments drawn from nature in favor of God, freedom and immortality, but finds that the most satisfactory proofs come from within rather than from without.

"In Memoriam" is no less metaphysical than "The Two Voices," but it speaks more directly the language of the heart, is much better known and more frequently quoted. All the bitterness of grief which the heart can feel in the loss of friends is minutely portrayed: all the changes which death may make in the object beloved, the question of the immortality of the individual soul or of its possible merging into some great world soul, existing still but in a form no longer recognizable; the problem of evil and death, and the continual conflict between nature and faith—these are all questions which come to every human soul as to the poet. Tennyson has answered them not only in accord with Christian sentiment, but in terms that express the latest development of philosophic thought. He makes faith in divine goodness the power by which man apprehends.

> Truths that never can be proved
> Until we close with all we loved
> And all, we flow from, soul in soul.

This faith is widely different from a listless belief that comes from indolence. It has nothing to do with an idle acceptance on the verdict of authority, and it is as far removed from superstition as science is remote from ignorance. Instead of something passive, it is in fact the living motive power of all worthy human action. It is the positive conviction that goodness is at the heart of things, and is to be won by indomitable effort. Without this faith in the reality of justice and righteousness neither the life here nor the life hereafter would be possible or desirable.

Faith as a religious sentiment has been emphasized from the Christian era down. It has been re-emphasized by the latest philosophic teaching as a faculty for the direct perception of the highest truths, and as such is no less valid and trustworthy in its own domain than is the sentient eye in the physical world. There may be questionings as to the reality of the things preceived by the organ of sense, just as doubts may assail the visions of faith, but no rational being would act on these questionings. The healthful testimony of both has to be accepted, and, in spite of himself and in spite of his doubts, man has to live by faith. has to practically accept the belief in the permanence of goodness and be satisfied with > Believing where he cannot prove.

Cost of Making Paper Money.

The exact cost of making paper money has recently been figured out at the Treasury Department. The figures have been ascertained by taking the actual cost of printing notes for ten months, at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and adding the cost of the distinctive paper from the Government mill, the clerical labor of handling the money in the treasury and the expressage to the places of issue. The money printed during the ten months included $40,920,000 in United States notes, making 1,232,000 sheets, at a cost of $59,915. The silver certificates printed of various denominations were $91,156,000, and cost $252,607, while new treasury notes under the act of 1890 were printed to the amount of $60,336,000, at a cost of $177,303. The total amount printed was 9,840,000 sheets, of a face value of $191,512,000 and a cost of printing of $489,825. An addition of 5 per cent. was made for the sheets spoiled in printing, and the cost of the paper from the Government mill was found to be 43 1 2 cents per pound, making the cost of the amount used, including expressage and other charges, $65,601. The expense of handling in the treasury was $2,666, and the expense in handling money after it was printed was $27,426. The expense of shipment of notes was $28,726, raising the total cost for 9,840,000 perfect impressions, each containing four notes, to $614,246. This made the cost of each sheet, without regard to denomination, six cents two mills and four-tenths of a mill, and the cost of a note just one-fourth of this, or fifteen and three-fifth mills. The average face value of the notes of all denominations from $106 down to $1, is about $4.50, so that the average cost per dollar is three and one-fifth mills.—Washington correspondence of the Globe.

Ideas at Will.

Dr. Lauder Brunton has made a discovery which ought to entitle him to the gratitude of all who live by intellectual labor. It is nothing less than the secret of how to have ideas at will. One night, after a long day's work, this eminent physician was called upon to write an article immediately. He sat down with pen, ink and paper before him, but not a single idea came into his head, not a single word could he write. Lying back, he then soliloquized: "The brain is the same as it was yesterday, and it worked then; why will it not work to-day?" Then it occurred to him that the day before he was not so tired and that probably the circulation was a little brisker than to-day. He next considered the various experiments on the connection between cerebral circulation and mental activity, and concluded that if the blood would not come to the brain the best thing would be to bring the brain down to the blood. It was at this moment that he was seized with the happy thought of laying his head "flat upon the table." At once his ideas began to flow and his pen to run across the paper. By and by Dr. Brunton thought, "I am getting on so well I may sit up now." But it would not do. "The moment," he continues, "that I raised my head, my mind became an utter blank, so I put my head down again flat upon the table, and finished my article in that position."

His Last Contribution.

George William Curtis's last contribution to The Easy Chair—a plea for Christmas—is published in the November number of Harper's Magazine, and with it that department of the magazine will be discontinued. The Easy Chair was started in September, 1851, with Donald G. Mitchell as its writer. Mr. Curtis's connection with it began with the number for October, 1853, when he and Mr. Mitchell became joint editors of the department. The latter was responsible for the foreign paragraphs, which appeared for some time under a subhead as "Our Foreign Gossip" although still a part of The Easy Chair. In March, 1859, Our Foreign Gossip became a distinct department called Our Foreign Bureau, and from that time Mr. Curtis was the sole occupant of The Easy Chair. The discontinuance of the department at the present time is a signal mark of respect to the memory of him who for nearly forty years had imparted to it so much of his own personality that it seems impossible to imagine an Easy Chair with any other occupant than himself.

TENNYSON.

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me;
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

There was no moaning of the bar,
O singer lost from sight,
When out beyond our evening star,
Death drifted thee to light.

Black was the pilot at the helm;
Dark gloomed the hither shore;
But never wave could overwhelm,
The land that gleamed before.

Beyond these voices there is peace!
Life fills thy cup this day!
From pain and weariness surcease
They find who pass this way!

Oh! laurelled at the head and feet,
We cannot call thee dead!
Our hearts repeat thy music sweet,
And we are comforted.

—Margaret E. Sangster, in Harper's Bazar.

NOTE—Several requisition sheets not coming to hand in time for this issue, will be added as they come in.

VICTORIA, B.C., December 29, 1892.

GENTLEMEN,—I am in receipt of your very numerously signed requisition, placed in my hands this evening, asking me to allow my name to be put in nomination for the mayoralty. If you gentlemen think my services would be of benefit to the city in general, I place myself in your hands in accepting it, and can only say that should you do me the honor of electing me, I will do my best to advance the interests and prosperity of the city, to the best of my ability.

I am in favor of the fostering and encouragement of all industrial and manufacturing enterprises; the assistance of legitimate public works; the improvement and extension of the city waterworks which, I may add, I had the honor of seeing constructed during my former tenure of office; the permanent improvement of our streets and sidewalks, and the extension of the lighting of the city, thereby placing Victoria in the forefront as a commercial centre and healthy residential city as by nature intended.

Regretting that through urgent business, I have to leave the city for a few days, which will prevent my calling upon you personally, and hoping that on my return I shall have the pleasure of meeting the ratepayers and explaining my views on all matters connected with civic affairs, I remain,

Yours truly,
WM. DALBY.

HOPING AGAINST HOPE.

The Father of the Lost Boy, Miller, Still Searching—Died Under an Operation.

NANAIMO, Jan. 7.—Mr. Stark Miller returned from Qualicum yesterday by the steamer Joan without being successful in the search for the body of his son. Mr. Austin will leave again in a few days for the place.

The death of Mrs. J. Piper took place at the Veronica home on Thursday where the deceased had undergone an operation performed by three doctors. A husband and four little children mourn her loss.

The installation of officers of Myrtle Lodge, K. of P., took place in the lodge room on Thursday night.

ACCUSED OF BOODLING.

Two County Commissioners the Men—Guion Liners for the Northern Pacific Line.

SEATTLE, Jan. 7.—A contest more bitter than the water fight of a few weeks ago is going on in Spokane over the building of a $300,000 county bridge within the city limits. County Commissioners S. Arthur and John Mayor are accused of being "boodlers," and their arrest is threatened. The property owners obtained an injunction on opening bills and the case will be argued on Monday, when the terms of the county commissioners expire.

The steamers Alaska and Arizona of the Guion line are to be brought around the Horn at an early date and placed on the Puget Sound-Oriental route. These magnificent liners are to be leased by Dodwell, Carlill & Co., and will run for the Northern Pacific. This statement has been made before and denied, but it is now confirmed by the company's officials. The Guion line numbers five steamers and runs from New York to Liverpool.

CANNOT COPE WITH BROWN.

The Mayoralty Contest—Old Dog Tray's Reward—Heated Elections.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 7.—A carload of flooring for the Canadian Court at the World's Fair goes forward to Chicago to-day.

The supporters of Wm. Brown for Mayor are working hard and expect success, while F. Cope is practically without enthusiastic partisans, but the candidate himself expects victory as a matter of course. The Trades and Labor Council last night endorsed Wm. Brown as their candidate for Mayor; A. W. Scoullar, John McDowell, C. L. Queen, Geo. Hobson and Wm. Towler as aldermen in their respective wards. Brown's chances of election are good.

Ex-Mayor MacLean has been commissioned by the Dominion Government to visit Oregon and Washington to ascertain the feeling of the farmers there and induce as many as possible to remove to British Columbia, Manitoba and the Northwest. The appointment is looked upon as a convenient means to provide for a veteran political follower.

Elections in the municipalities of South Vancouver, Richmond and North Vancouver are being more keenly contested than usual. At a meeting last night considerable dissatisfaction was expressed with the North Vancouver council's direction of affairs.

The Indian Mission church at Euclataw Rapids was blown down this week.

GABRIEL VS. MESHER.

The Plaintiff Gabriel Awarded $3500—An Appeal to the Full Court

The taking of the evidence for the defence was concluded at 11:30 to-day, when Mr. Bodwell, for the defendant, and Mr. McPhillips for the plaintiff, addressed the jury at considerable length. His Lordship then briefly summed up the evidence, pointing out that negligence was a relative term, and that what would be regarded as extreme negligence in one case might not be so considered in a case where the circumstances were the same, but the conditions under which the accident took place were different. The pleadings in this case set forth three distinct points, viz., that the plaintiff was a painter, the defendant was the contractor who employed him, and that in March the plaintiff sustained injuries while he was engaged as a servant of the defendant. To these might be added another point which was admitted, viz, that the injuries sustained by the plaintiff were permanent and incurable, and that they were the result of a fall from a scaffolding erected by the defendant.

The learned judge warned the jury against allowing themselves to be swayed by sympathy for the plaintiff, and pointed out what it was necessary for them to consider before coming to a conclusion as to the verdict they should give. The defendant Mesher would not be liable for negligence if he had fulfilled rightly the duties and obligations placed upon him by the law. His duty was to provide suitable and competent workmen, to see that the materials used were good, sufficient and proper for the purpose for which they were intended, and were such as would preserve the lives of the workmen from danger. He was not bound to guarantee the security of every plank specifically, but he was bound to exercise reasonable skill with the view of protecting his men from injury. Counsel on both sides had arrayed the evidence in two ways, utterly contradictory, and it was for the jury to sift it and give the verdict on the weight of evidence. The jury had seen the plaintiff brought in and had heard his evidence, and had no doubt been struck with the manner in which he had given his evidence. If they thought his head was clear and his memory good, they should give his evidence every weight, more weight indeed than that of one whose interests were involved. It was stated that the plaintiff had gone upon the plank willingly and with a full knowledge that it was unsafe and that, therefore, he was responsible for the accident. It was for the jury to ascertain the facts and decide accordingly.

At the conclusion of the learned judge's charge to the jury Mr. Bodwell asked His Lordship to present other matters to the jury, but His Lordship declined to state anything which would interfere with the free consideration by the jury of the evidence before them.

The court then adjourned until 3:30, when it is expected a verdict will be returned.

At 4 o'clock the jury gave a verdict for $3500 in favor of the plaintiff. Mr. Bodwell's motion for a non-suit will be heard before the full court, probably on Thursday next.

The German Army Bill.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—The January number of the Preussische Jahrdue contains a notable article by Dr. Delbrueck on the army bill. The rejection of the bill, he says, would be an unqualified disaster to the German nation and especially to the monarchy. In view of the declarations of the cabinet the defeat of the bill must now lead to the fall of every minister. The withdrawal of the bill, which has been recommended repeatedly by the business interests which are to be taxed to raise the additional 58,000,000 marks annually, Dr. Delbrueck says, would be an irreparable blow to the Emperor, who, after long deliberation, had placed the whole weight of his personality behind it.

The Munich Allgemeine Zeitung (Bismarckian) continues its attacks upon the bill. In a leader yesterday morning it stated that five-sixths of the officers from the rank of major upwards were opposed to the measure.

The Freisainnige Zeitung (Radical organ) prophesies that the army bill will be rejected on the second reading in about four weeks.

A TOUR OF TITLES.

Not of Aristocrats but Those Produced by Authors.

"The Lady of the Aroostook" (who was "An Ambitious Woman") determined to spend "A Year Abroad." "One Reason Why" she liked sea voyages was "She Loved a Sailor." Then, too, "The Toilers of the Sea" always interested her. On shipboard she met "An Accomplished Gentleman." Though only "A Chance Acquaintance," she thought him a "Perfect Adonis," and "Almost Faultless" (still she was "True as Steel" to her sailor). This fellow-traveler told her he was such "A Thorough Bohemian" that he called himself "The Man Without a Country" and with "No Name." She, however, knew that he was of "Noble Blood," for "The Pilot" had told her. "She" said she owned no interest in "King Solomon's Mines," but she had plenty of "Hard Cash," viz., "American Coin," to enable her to take "A Flying Trip Around the World," but it would be "Out of the Question" to go "Alone," though she had no fear of "Hidden Perils" nor of being "Kidnapped." She concluded to join "The Innocents Abroad" and with them spend tho "Winter on the Nile." While there they met "Uarda" and "The Sisters" of George Ebers. They then took an "Italian Journey," during which they visited the old home of "Romola," though they had not time to call upon "The Makers of Florence." However, before leaving "The City of the Sea" they bought some curios from "The Merchant of Venice." Traveling northward they met in "The Sleeping Car" "A Hardy Norseman," who entertained them with "Tales of the Modern Vikings." They only made "A Little Tour in France," stopping only in Paris to ask "The Attic Philosopher" if he had discovered "Old Ma'm'selle's Secret" and to call on Dr. Maistre, who never went "Abroad," one of his eccentricities being to deride travel. He always said: I am content with "A Journey Around My Room."

The visited "A Castle in Spain" and found the court all reading "The Life of Columbus." Reaching England their "Hard Times" began. "An Uncommercial Traveler" had given alarming reports of the plague on the Continent and said it would be "A Fearful Responsibility" to admit travelers. So their "Great Expectations" fell, for their visit to London was "A Hopeless Case." They left "The Anglo-maniacs," as they termed them, to make "A Hazard of New Fortunes" in Old Scotia. There they were warmly welcomed by "Macleod of Dare," "Lorna Doone" and "Madcap Violet." "After Many Days" they took passage on the good ship "Mollie Brawn," "At Sunrise" they bade adieu to their "New Found Friends" and were soon "Homeward Bound." As "The Professor" was "Looking Backward" to wave again, he caught a faint echo of "Good-Bye, Sweetheart." He would have lingered "In Far Lochaber," for "A Highland Widow" "In Silk Attire" had made him her "Devout Lover." However, "A Case of Emergency," "An Imperative Duty," but a pleasant one, caused him to be "Called Back." "A Virginia Inheritance" was awaiting him. "Home Again," and "All Is Well that Ends Well," "The Wanderers" all satisfied with their "Roundabout Journeyings," only "The Professor" thinking there was one which could be more pleasant—"His Wedding Journey."

"The Sequel" to his "Lesson in Love" is not "A Strange Story," but "A Modern Instance," whose true love ran smooth. There was "No Foul Play," no cross purposes—finale, "Bridal March" and "Wedding Ring."

"The Lady of the Aroostook" was happy, too. She had seen "Terry Denver," "The Man She Cared For," and had gathered fuel for her "Back Log Studies."

Do Not Miss

Reading this item. As Lange & Co. did not succeed in selling their business for the figure agreed to to their Eastern friend, nor in disposing of all of their stock this Christmas to the public, and as the building wherein they have conducted business for the last 17 years is to be destroyed shortly and a new one erected in place, under the circumstances Lange & Co. are obliged to re-open in their own place, No. 88 Douglas street, opposite Odd Fellows' hall. Reduced sales will continue until goods which are left are sold. Any one wishing to secure a good going business, established since 30 years, can do so at a very reasonable figure. And the new premises can be rented at a moderate rate.

Shoes

(With apologies to Rudyard Kipling.)

What maketh Erskine's biz to hum? What makes his clerks perspire?
It isn't "drummer" sent by train, nor messages by wire;
Nor salesman's wily artifice, nor competitors with the blues;
But the lumping, humping business from the sale of his fine shoes.
